Managed Detection & Response (MDR)

Enhance your security with 24/7 remote monitoring and remediation

On average, a new cyberattack is attempted every 39 seconds—and many organizations are feeling the pressure. Some take the DIY approach for protection but find they currently lack the trained staff, operational processes, and 24/7 coverage needed to meet the demands of Board members and regulators.

Blue Mantis Managed Detection and Response (MDR) solutions help overworked CISOs, CIOs, and their teams by covering the unknown cybersecurity weak spots across an IT environment and responding to incidents quickly and effectively for true peace of mind.

Gain turnkey IT resilience

Blue Mantis MDR solutions seamlessly integrate with your existing IT processes and environment. Built on the industry's only cloud-native platform and monitored by Arctic Wolf, our MDR solutions aggregate and analyze security telemetry from internal and external networks, endpoints, and the cloud.

With a Blue Mantis MDR solution, your IT team gains resilience against these voluminous threats by combining cloud-native security technology and 24/7 human monitoring to quickly remediate an attack before any real damage occurs.

Experience quick time to value

The average cost to build in-house detection and response is well over $1 million, not including the ongoing cost of training and staffing security experts for 24/7 operations. Blue Mantis MDR is delivered on demand as a service for less than the average cost of hiring a single full-time cybersecurity expert for your IT department.
